SPRING THUNDER. From the Louisville Journal. We know by the breath of the balmy air, By the springing grass and the sunshine fair-By the soft rain falling-as if in love-The sleeping blossoms and bulbs above-By the tint of green on the forest brown, By the fallen tassels of Aspen down, By the lilac bud and the turited larch-That we have done with the wayward March.

We know by the call of the nestling bird, As she feels her mother impulse stirred, By the venturing forth of the lonely bee Like the dove sent out o'er the olden sea). By the croak of the frog in his willowy pond, By the dove's low moan in the copse beyo By the quickening pulse and the thrilling vein, That April laughs into life again.

But not the sunshine, the breeze, the showers, The tender green on the embryo flowers, The voices of birds or the quickened sense, Appeal with such startling eloquence To the heart that yearns for the summer's reign Weary and earth-sick from winter's chain,) As that sound which seems through space to ring-The first low thunder of wakened Spring! Oh! marvel not that the men of old Deemed its deep music by gods controlled, And by the power that within them strove, Called it the wrath of the mystic Jove-For we are stirred with an awe protound By that mysterious and sullen sound-Nor give we faith to the birds and bloom Till we hear that fiat of Winter's doom.

8 " .....60 So in the Spring of our life's career, We stand and gaze on the opening year, We feel the sunshine, we drink the breeze, But no source of feeling is stirred by tnese; Not till the voice of the stormy soul Swells like the sound of the thunder's roll-Not till the flood-gates of sorrow break In passionate tears-doth our Summer wake Веесимове, April 7, 1858.

Some years ago I met an old gentleman at Ewell, in Surrey, near which is Pitt's place, All orders for Tickets in the above splendid town, whose company was much courted on Schemes will be promptly and faithfully at- account of his musical talent, and who was a frequent visitor to his lordship. The story NOTICE .- Persons at a distance who ordinarily told is this: "That he dreamed desire to purchase Tickets in the Maryland the ghost of a lady whom he had seduced 4 Prizes of 125 ap'g to 5,000 are 500 State Lotteries, will in future, direct their letters appeared to him, and predicted his death at 12 o'clock at night on the third day following." My informant's story differs only thus far, that the supposed apparition was that of the mother of the lady in question, who had died of a broken heart in consequence of her daughter's disbonor. Lord Lyttleton was at this time in a very bad state of health in consequence of his excesses, and was subject to what my informant called "suffocating fits"probably nervous bysteria. Be this as it may, it appears on the day of his death, the foretold third day, he had a party of friends at Pitt's place, among whom was the organist whence my informant had the account. He says that Lyttleton was in a state of some agitation, and had told the story of the dream to his friends. As the thrown away without the shadow of a chance night wore on and midnight approached, his of getting a prize. Beware of all Lotteries nervousness increased painfully; and some of praced against the number drawn. This operation is repeated until all the Prizes are drawn out. where the Capital Prize is unusually large in his visitors said during his absence, "Lyttlecomparison to the price of tickets. In every in- ton will frighten himself into another fit stance where large prizes are offered for a small with this ghost story," and they determined to put a clock, which stood in the room, for-The Kentucky State Lottery for the benefit | ward, and when he returned to them they of the Shelby College, under our management, said, "Hurrah! Lyttleton, twelve o'clock is past, you've jockeyed the ghost; now the best thing is to go quietly to bed, and in the morning you will be all right." He accordingly all other Lotteries which purport to be decided went up stairs; and while some of his guests were putting on their coats to depart, his valet came down to fetch something-it was said to get some mint water, which he was in the habit of taking, leaving his Lordship > alone. At this period, the clock of the parish church, which was not far off, and which, of course, could not have been touched, began slowly to peal forth the true midnight hour. The valet proceeded up stairs and shortly burst forth into loud exclamations. The party ran up and found his lordship fallen dead. My informant's impression was that the sudden revulsion of feeling from a state Managers of Maryland State Lotteries. of fancied security to finding himself at the moment in the very instant of the dreaded danger, had caused such a re-action as to bring on the fits which carried him off!--He, no doubt, had heard the first stroke of the clock, as well as others down stairs, and as each successive blow struck slowly upon the bell, the sense of danger and the remembrance of the dream became greater and greater, and to so weakened a frame and to so diseased a mind, no doubt these caused the catastrophe. It is not improbable most gnost stories might be found to end in a similar natural solution .- Notes and Queries. CARD.-The following statement made A by the Attorney for the Commonwealth, at my request, is the only answer I have to make at this time, to the attack made upon my character, by Walter J. Carroll. ELI PETTY.

A T the request of Captain Eli Petty, I have prepared the following statement —In August last, Captain Walter J. Carroll, called on me and stated that his wite and daughter had left his house, and robbed him of several Soda, Sulphate of Lime, and Carbonate of Po- hundred dollars-that upon information receivtassa, prepared and put up in bags of 200 lbs., by ed from Petty, he had obtained a search warrant. and recovered a large portion of this money and other articles, at the house of Petty-and that he desired to have his wife and daughter prosecuted to the extent of the law-that they had been arrested, and his daughter committed to jail, and his wife held to bail by Henry L. Simpson, esq., for further hearing. Upon question ing him, I ascertained that these parties had access to the trunk in which the money was deposited, at all times, and that the facts of TEGARS .- A large lot of prime HAVANA case could not justify the detention of Mrs. SEGARS, just received per Schr. Ann D., Carroll and the daughter, upon a charge of felony. I did not understand Captain Carroll as implicating Petry in any manner, nor did the facts se far as they came to my knowledge, tend to implicate him-on the contrary, he refused to permit the parties charged to remove the trunk, in which the money was found, without the knowledge and consent of Capt. Carroll. I have shewn this to Joseph Padgett, the officer SALAD OIL—Best Bordeaux, just received and for sale by J. R. PIERPOINT, No. 172, S. E. corner of King and Wash. sts. mine. I would further state that I have heard of no "complaints of robbery" against Petty. C. E. STUART,
